What Not To Wear

"What not to wear" is the name of a TV show. Every time I think of it, I think of "What does God want us to wear?" God wants us to put off the old man, fleshly ways and the ways of the world. The way we look and how we dress portrays the image of who we are inside. Christians should not dress to cause anyone to be sexually attracted to them, as the world does.

My daddy once preached a long time ago, that daddy's should set their daughters down in a chair before they went out on a date and inspect how they were dressed. He said, "If they don't, they should not get mad at the boy when their daughters had sex or got pregnant before marriage."

No girl or woman should advertise what they do not plan to give away. When you advertise your breasts, belly, and gluteus maximus to boys and men you are enticing them to be sexually attracted to you. That is unbiblical, unholy, and not what a saved Christian should even desire to do.

Most Christian parents do not really look at their teen girls and wonder why they get pregnant so early. Parents are too busy working and running to keep up with the schedule, that they don't take time to see what their children are really doing. If we would stop and check out what our children are doing, it will save us much heartache in the future.

There is nothing wrong with being "old fashioned" or "old school", if it saves our sons and daughters from disaster. We should not force them to grow up too fast and place them in positions where they are not yet qualified to make the right choices. There are many social positions that teens should not be in because they are not mature enough to make the right choices.
